welfare of all concerned. But the selfish ambition of Huerta may involve this country in a war that will result in the annexation of Mexico to the United States, as the price of indemnity for quelling the disturbance. It will then be late for the stubborn dictator to forsake his evil ways and "flee from the wrath to come." The "die will have been cast," and justice meted out to a long suffering people beyond the Rio Grande.

Hon. R. F. Beasley, editor of the Monroe Journal, is an active candidate for the congressional nomination in the Seventh district and gave Representative Page "a run for his money" in the Lee county primary some days ago. The vote was 298 for Page and 252 for Beasley. This is considered a favorable indication for Mr. Beasley, since he has only recently announced that he would contest the nomination with Mr. Page. The result in other counties will be patched with interest. Both are clean, capable men and the Seventh district may consider itself fortunate in having either of them on guard in Washington. Of course, the district is strongly democratic.

General Carranza's protest that the occupation of Vera Cruz by American troops was an act of hospitality was promptly answered by Secretary of State Bryan, who replied that our government could not recognize those claiming authority over territory not controlled by Huerta. The Constitutionalist leader evidently desired recognition, but his note did not produce the expected effect. On the contrary, it moved our government to restore the embargo on arms and General Carranza finds himself and his followers in a worse plight than before, for the rebels have been profiting by the action of President Wilson in lifting the restriction on the shipment of arms into Mexican territory some months ago. Better for him to have let well enough alone. However, General Villa expressed a friendly feeling towards the United States in definite terms and official Washington saw the incident quickly closed. He (Villa) took no exception to the seizure of Vera Cruz by our war ships, expressing the hope that the report would be closed so tight even water could not pass through. And so it is, at the wrking.

If the mediators fail to agree upon terms of peace between this country and Mexico and war is declared North Carolina stands ready to furnish her full quota of 5,165 soldiers for the conflict, 2,753 already being members of the National Guard. Adjutant General Lawrence W. Young has been making preparations for weeks and now says his men are ready for action. Many lives would have to be sacrificed and all are hoping for a settlement of the trouble without the horrors of war. We need our young men at home. The future of the State rests upon their shoulders.

There is sharp division in the United States senate over the question of canal tolls and the house repeal bill may find rough gleeing at that end of the capitol. Senator Simmons would add an amendment declaring that by passing the proposed measure the United States waves no rights it now possesses under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. It is understood that the Simmons amendment meets the approval of President Wilson and administration leaders will probably make no objection to it either. In this event, an early conclusion of the fight is anticipated, so far as the executive and Congress is concerned.

The people will register their views at the fall elections.

That was a fearful conflict between the labor unions, strike breakers and militia in a coal mining district of Colorado a few days ago, in which dozens of men lost their lives and many others were wounded. The state militia was utterly unable to quell the disturbance and President Wilson finally had to send Federal troops into the district before peace could be restored, and after he had appealed, in vain, to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the principal stockholder in the mining property to use his influence in an effort to arbitrate the differences. Just the way of a plutocrat.

SOME FARM TALK.

Demonstrator Perkins Addresses Farmers a Letter.

Dear Sir:

Recently we mailed you a circular letter giving the importance of having a good seed bed made before planting is done. Following that is the value of improved seed as compared with "SCRUB" seed. Now comes cultivation mainly for the following reasons:

1. To Prevent Weeds. The best time to destroy weeds is while the seed are germinating in the soil—before the young plants show above ground. At this stage they are dislodged in the soil and destroyed. Stir the soil to kill weed and grass seed.
2. To Save Moisture. This is important, because all plants require large amounts of water while growing. Plants cannot use solid food. Water dissolves it, carries it up into plants, leaves it there as plant tissues, and it is then evaporated from the leaves into the air. (Water does not get into plants through their leaves as some people suppose.) No water, therefore, means no available plant food, no matter if there are present many tons of fertilizer per acre. Water evaporates from the ground very rapidly on warm days or when the wind is blowing. This can be largely prevented by keeping the soil loose on top for from one to three inches according to the depth the land was broken. Do not let the land stay packed on top. Do not let a crust stay there. Run weeders or harrows often. Stir the soil to save the moisture.
3. To Make Plant Food Available. Stirring the soil makes plant food available because it allows the soil to make plant food.
4. To Warm the Soil. A thermometer will show that the cultivated soil is a little warmer than uncultivated soil. (Show this by the use of a thermometer.) Stir the soil to let warmth in.
5. To Help Germination. Seed will not start their growth if the soil is so packed upon them that the air is excluded. Stir the soil to help germination.

It matters little what kinds of implements are used, just so they do the work well and economically. The important thing is doing the work at the proper time. If the land is too wet, the harrow simply streaks through, leaving its track behind. If too dry it slides over the surface without dislodging the seed or young grass. Most farmers wait too long after a rain to do this work. To delay the use of harrows and weeders one day too long often results in losing their effectiveness. Start them in time.

Yours truly,
ERNEST L. PERKINS,
County Agent.

The Only Place in Town Where Hoosiers Are Sold

These 40 Features which we have described in detail this week, are backed by the full guarantee of the Hoosier Company.

For 16 years this company has built the famous and in all that time has never added an "improvement" that proved a failure. But unless you sit down in front of this beautiful cabinet and see its wonderful conveniences yourself you cannot hope to realize how much labor this new Hoosier would save you.

- (1) See for instance, how the big, roomy, metal table, slides out 16 inches over the base. Notice how an exclusive Hoosier patent prevents this table from warping.
- (2) Observe especially how cleverly the inside of the door space above the table is utilized to bring things you need often nearest your hand. The sliding table enables you to open the doors without removing anything from the table, and the inside of the doors save any danger of knocking things over by reaching across the table for those supplies you use scores of times daily.

Our window, displaying these features in "White Beauty," has caused more talk than any window display we've ever had. SEE IT. Tomorrow is the last day.

- (3) "What shall we have for Dinner?" If you are one of the millions of homes in which that is an eternally perplexing problem, Mrs. Christine Frederick's Food Guide, now an exclusive part of the Hoosier Cabinet, will save you enough time and money to pay for the Cabinet in less than a year. Simply turn the dial until you see the meat you want and a choice of several perfectly balanced economical menus is before you. Don't fail to examine this feature tomorrow.
- (4) Every woman has favorite recipes. If you're like most women, you have difficulty remembering where you put the one you want. The Metal Recipe Card File has 80 cards and ten index guides. You can paste or write the recipe and file it always at your fingers' ends. A special holder is provided so you can keep any recipe you are using at level of your eyes—without holding or rolling it.

- (5) In your examination tomorrow, be sure to note carefully the New Shaker Sifter we've already described. It shakes flour through instead of grinding it through. It cannot wear out. It cannot grind grit or dirt through. It makes flour fluffy and light. The only thing of its kind. An absolutely new helper in your kitchen.

These and 35 other conveniences are worth examining tomorrow—even at some personal effort on your part. Saturday is your last chance to decide whether you want them now on the easy Hoosier Plan.
